

The Balfour Declaration: 67 Words that Changed the Course of History

On November 2, 1917, the British government issued the Balfour Declaration, a letter that expressed support for the establishment of a national home for the Jewish people in Palestine. This 67-word declaration has had a profound impact on the Middle East, and its legacy is still being debated today.

The Balfour Declaration was issued at a time when the British were seeking to gain support from both the Arabs and the Jews in their war against the Ottoman Empire. The declaration was intended to assure the Jews that they would have a place to call their own after the war, while also reassuring the Arabs that their rights would be protected.
