Surgical Treatment of Hemorrhoids

Surgery is typically recommended for severe or recurring hemorrhoids that do not respond to other treatments. Surgical Treatment Of Hemorrhoids Zembach provides a comprehensive overview of the different surgical options available, including:

It involves stapling the hemorrhoid tissue to cut off its blood supply. * Laser hemorrhoidectomy: This procedure uses a laser to remove the hemorrhoid tissue. * Infrared coagulation: This procedure uses infrared light to shrink the hemorrhoid tissue.
